

Acclaimed singer-songwriter Gavin Lee is a country music artist characterized by his down-home, hardworking, blue-collar persona, coupled with a genuine heart and endearing smile. Gavin has garnered a large and welcoming grassroots following with his true-grit, 90's country inspired sound. The self-taught guitarist is dedicated to following the same footprints as some of his favorite country artists.

From Molly Hatchet to Lynyrd Skynyrd, Gavin's taste in music was cultivated early on by the songs that he often heard playing in the background at home. Gavin picked up the guitar as a teenager and the instrument and his music have since become his true love. Following the country music hit makers that made waves in the 80s, the self-taught guitarist and traditional country recording artist is dedicated to follow the same footprint of traditionalists before him.

Having suffered the loss of his stepfather, Gavin turned to his music as therapy to process his grief. Over time, his catalog of originals blossomed from sadness to celebrating the "little things" in life. Gavin used songwriting to cope and heal.

"I try to write music that is relatable. That is my ultimate goal for my music."

The singer-songwriter has previously recorded and released Old Chevy, Gone Fishin', Dixie Dreamin', Millionaire in Mexico, Friend with A Beer, American Crazy, Beginning of Me, All You Gotta Do Is Dance, (went No. 7 on the UK charts and No. 80 on Music Row charts), I Know My Way Around This Town and Redneckin'. Gavin recently completed his latest studio project with producer, Eric Legg. His upcoming single, "Forever Don't Last That Long" was co-written with Danny Wells who also wrote, the legendary George Strait's hit song, "Check Yes or No."

Gavin has garnered a welcoming grassroots following with his Gavin has swiftly become one of the top trending up 'n comers in the indie country music scene. An active member of the Music City community, he's become a staple at various writer's rounds in Nashville.